The €7million sports complex planned by an alliance of local soccer clubs and the FAI for Hartstown Park, first revealed in last month's Community Voice, looks doomed to failure following the withdrawal of a number of clubs from the alliance.

The West End Sporting Alliance comprising six soccer clubs which use the park was established with the assistance of the FAI and had engaged a consultant to draw up plans for submission to Fingal County Council. However Community Voice has learned that two of the main clubs involved - Huntstown Villa and Hartstown United - have now withdrawn from the project.

The project was initially proposed by Verona FC who wished to sell their clubhouse premises on Grove Road. Under an option agreement made between the club and Cosgrave Brothers, the owner / developer of Westend Retail Park, the club would have received €2million for their existing premises and had offered to put this money into the new complex. The deal also envisaged Fingal County Council selling the two pitches on Grove Road to the developer.

In a recent letter to the FAI, Huntstown Villa say that following meetings and discussions between members and the committee of the club they are withdrawing from the project.

Acting club chairman Tony Lawless also told the FAI that "at our initial meeting assurances were given to Huntstown Villa FC and all clubs that should any Hartstown Park user/club no longer continue to explore the concept, then the whole concept would be terminated. We expect this to happen immediately," he said in his letter.
